

Year 6 Autumn 1 Design Technology

Seasonal Foods

To design, make and evaluate a seasonal harvest soup to be sold to Tesco customers as part of their new autumnal range.

Intended users – vegetarians

Purpose – to be sold in supermarkets

Product – soup

Lesson 2 19.9.24

Which seasonal soups are already being sold in UK supermarkets and what are they like?

The children looked at 3 different tins of vegetable soup (budget, mid-range and luxury) and explored the packaging, ingredients and dietary information.

They then taste tested all of the soups, considering the appearance, taste, texture and smells.

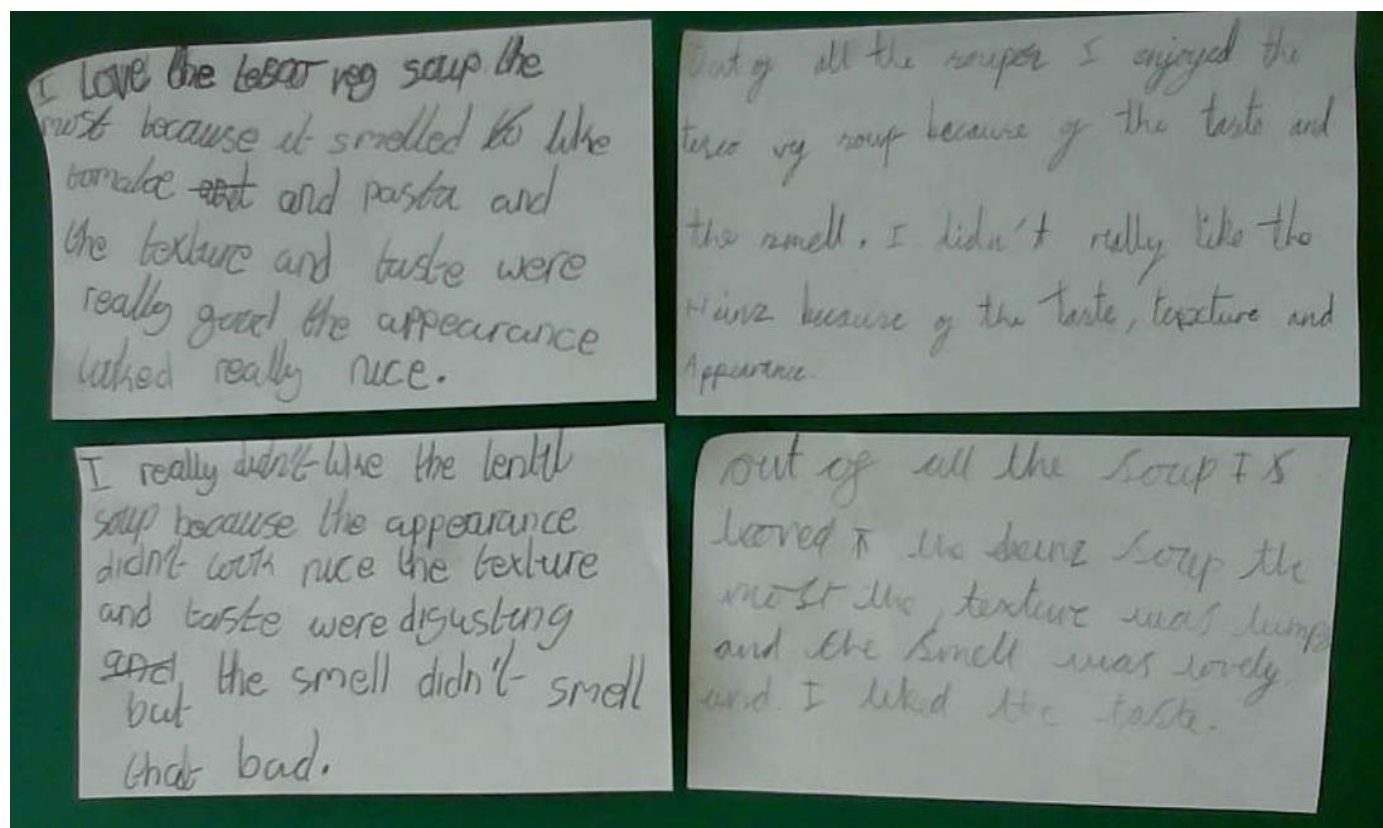

While the children were taste testing, they were ranking the soups based on appearance, smell, texture and taste.

	Budget Soup	Mid-Range Soup	Luxury Soup
Appearance	4/10	2/10	0/10
Smell	10/10	10/10	2/10
Texture	8/10	0/10	6/10
Taste	10/10	1/10	8/10

	Budget Soup	Mid-Range Soup	Luxury Soup
Appearance	7/10	1/10	9/10
Smell	10/10	6/10	7/10
Texture	6/10	5/10	6/10
Taste	10/10	9/10	8/10

After they had tasted all of the soups, the children went into detail about what they liked or disliked about particular soups.

I liked the tesco soup
the most because it had a kick to it and it tasted amazing.

The worst one for me was the heinz.

I really liked the tesco veg soup because it wasn't too soft but not too lumpy. And it looked, tasted ^{and} smelled amazing. I HATED the Heinz one because it was too lumpy, the taste was different to the can BUT I really liked the smell.

I didn't like any of them but if I had to pick one it would be cheap (tesco).

Out of all the soups, I liked the budget soup because the taste and the smell reminded me of spaghetti.

~~I really liked the~~

Finally, the children ranked the soups on a line of continuum from hate to love.
